APPRECIATION OF BEQUEST EXPRESSED

Board of Directors of Y. M. C. A. Express Their Gratitude to Family of Late L. B. Carle for $5,000 Gift.

In appreciation of the bequest of $5,000 from the late L. B. Carle to the Young Men's Christian association, the board of directors of the association at their last meeting adopted resolutions instructing the treasurer, C. H. Hemmingsway, to express to Mr. Carle's son, N. L. Carle, their appreciation of the gift. Accordingly, the following letter was sent to Mr. Carle:

"At the last meeting of the board of directors of the Young Men's Christian association, held on the 25th of this month, I was authorized and directed to notify you, and through you the family, that your father's substantial gift to the Young Men's Christian association was accepted with heartfelt thanks and with a deep appreciation of what it means to the association now and of what it may mean in the future.

"The gift comes with no condition or suggestion as to its use other than its simple implied message: 'let us help the Young Men's Christian association, because I believe it is helping to make the boys and the young men better.' The gift radiates the simple, rugged, unostentatious character of the giver. It is eloquent of the spirit that prompted it—service to his fellow men—not a monument to himself. It is in this spirit that the board has accepted the gift and purposes to use it.

"However, the board entertains the hope that a way will be found to perpetuate the name of the donor and the spirit of the gift, not as a monument to the dead but as an inspiration and example to the living, so that future generations may know and appreciate that to L. B. Carle they owe a debt of gratitude for having materially aided in making the Janesville Young Men's Christian association an instrument for greater usefulness.

"The board hopes to so use the gift that it shall inculcate the idea of social service, the idea that service to one's fellow men is the highest and noblest, and prove that when the necessity which gave that service birth shall have passed away that the public will not forget it; that the public is not ungrateful.

"Only a man whose pulse beats when humanity's great heart throbs truly lives. If he, however, when the final summons comes, returns to the community a portion of the wealth which it had bestowed on him, in order that humanity may be made better—not that his name be perpetuated, but that his usefulness be perpetuated, he extends his usefulness through the years; and gratitude builds for him a more lasting monument than any marble or bronze.

"That your father's gift will project his usefulness as a citizen through the coming years and receive, as it deserves, its full measure of gratitude, is the hope of the board of directors of the Young Men's Christian association and in which we are confident the family and the citizens of this city share.

A DELICATE HINT.

The Present Girard Sent to One of His Ship Captains.

One of the sea captains in the employ of Stephen Girard, the founder of Girard college, had a rare Yankee's fondness for whittling with his jack-knife and on one trip succeeded in getting away with a large part of the rail, although, feeling that he was not without the artistic sense, he really regarded the rail as greatly improved in appearance. When the vessel came to Philadelphia, Girard went aboard, made a general inspection in the captain's absence and as he was about to return to shore asked one of the seamen who had been cutting the rail. The seaman told him the captain and then, afraid his telling might have unpleasant consequences were the captain to learn of it in a roundabout way, informed that official of the interview with Girard. The captain was in terror of a reprimand, but, hearing nothing from his employer, supposed the incident closed. As he was about weighing anchor ready to leave port a dray loaded with shingles drove down to the wharf, and the driver halted the vessel.

"There must be some mistake," shouted the captain. "Our bill of lading doesn't mention shingles."

"This is where they belong," sang back the driver. "Mr. Girard himself told me to deliver them. He said they are for the captain to whittle."

S-E Examination.

Every man's life is an imperfect sort of circle which he repeats and runs over every day. He hath a set of thoughts, desires and inclinations which return upon him in their proper time and order and will very hardly be laid aside to make room for anything new and uncommon, so that call upon him when you please to set about the study of his own heart and you are sure to find him pre-occupied. Either he has some business to do or some company that he must entertain or some cross accident hath put him out of humor and miffed him for such a grave employment. And thus it cometh to pass that a man can never find leisure to look into himself, because he doth not set apart some portion of the day for that very purpose, but foolishly defereth from one day to another until his glass is almost run out and he is called upon to give a miserable account of himself in the other world.—Denn Swift.

Tal Races of the Earth.

The tallest race in the world is the Scotch of Galloway, who average five feet 11 inches in height; next come the inhabitants of the coast of Scotland, and then the Livonians, Irish, Norse, English, Polynesians, Sikhs, Palahs of the Sudan, Kaffirs, Choyenoes, and Patagonians, all of whom range between five feet eight and nine inches.

Not Quite the Thing.

SUFFERING FROM ECZEMA

New Discovery Has Revolutionized the Treatment of Skin Diseases.

Nothing in the history of medicine has ever approached the success of the marvelous skin remedy known as posham, which, it is safe to say, has cured more cases of eczema and skin diseases than any remedy ever offered for these ills.

The success of posham is not at all surprising when it is considered that even a very small quantity applied to the skin stops itching immediately and proceeds to heal at once.

The worst cases of eczema, as well as acne, herpes, tetter, piles, scaly rheum, rash, eruptions, hives, scaly scalp and every form of skin yield to it readily. It is such a simple, pleasant, red nose, mucky and inflamed skin posham is applied, the complexion being cleared over night.

All druggists, including the Smith Drug Co., and the Peoples' Drug Co., keep the "posham" size (for minor troubles) as well as the regular $2 jar.

But no one is even asked to purchase posham without first obtaining a sample package, which will be sent by mail, free of charge, upon request, by the Emergency Laboratories, 22 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City.

JOHN MITCHELL TO RESTORE CAR PEACE

He Is Unable to Change Leader Pratt's Mind Concerning Company's Proposition.

Philadelphia, Apr. 1.—Efforts on the part of John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers of America, to restore peace between the striking car men and the Rapid Transit Company were ineffectual.

None of the labor leaders would make a statement, but it is understood that Mr. Mitchell tried to have C. O. Pratt, the car men's leader, change his mind and induce the car men to accept the proposition made by Mayor Reuburn two weeks ago. This proposition was favored by W. D. Mahon, international president, but Pratt and the rank and file voted it down.

The council's finance committee at its meeting favorably reported a bill covering the expenses of the department of public safety during the strike of the trolley men. The total of this expense is $230,100.

BUSINESS AND POLITICS.

Careful students of conditions throughout the country are prone to predict a democratic victory at the polls this coming election. They see a great menace to the republican party and lay the blame upon the attitude of the insurgents' acts on which Wisconsin members of the lower house played such an important part. The Wall Street Journal, one of the conservative papers representing the moneyed interests of the east, particularly Wall street, comments on the situation.

It believes that the republican party is facing a much more serious probability of defeat than has been the case for fourteen years. It is by no means certain, of course, that the party leaders will not be able to save the presidency in 1912, even if the house of representatives is lost this autumn. Practically, however, the history of the country since the Civil war has shown that a party defeated in the middle of a presidential term has met defeat in the succeeding presidential election.

This was substantially the case after the great democratic victory in the congressional elections of 1874, when Mr. Tilden in 1876 carried the doubtful northern states. It was the case again after the republican defeats of 1882, which were followed in 1884 by the first election of Mr. Cleveland. It was the case again, when the revolution against the McKinley bill in 1890 was followed in 1892 by the second election of Mr. Cleveland. It was the case again when the revolt against the Gorman-Wilson law of 1891 almost wiped out democratic representation from the north and was followed by democratic defeat in 1896. The only exception to the rule was the elections of 1878, which returned a meager democratic majority of about twenty, but did not prevent the election of Garfield by a narrow margin in 1880.

With the purely partisan aspects of these matters this newspaper is not concerned. Whether an official is labeled republican or democrat seems to matter little if he pursues sound and conservative policies. The question to be confronted by the business community is whether democratic success means disturbance to business and, if so, whether business sentiment can be rallied against it. It can hardly be doubted that since the capture of the democratic organization by the followers of Mr. Bryan in 1896, democratic success under his leadership has been generally regarded as a menace to business security. The allcally has been not entirely in the actual program of the Bryan organization, but in the desertion from the party of many of those who acted as a balance-wheel to its more radical tendencies and who supported the reformatory policies of Mr. Cleveland. It then takes up the matter of many of these men especially those who were not bound by active political obligations to the democratic organization, have become so wedded to the habit of voting for republicans that they are practically members of that party. Their influence, therefore, cannot be counted upon to exert a sobering effect upon a triumphant democracy unless they can be persuaded to take their old places in the party ranks. It is to their leadership, however, that it would be necessary for the party to look if it wished to avoid another campaign on the part of the republicans, making to the business community the appeal of self-preservation which was so effective in 1896, 1900 and 1908.

INGALL'S DISCOVERY.

In the interests of the proposed industrial insurance measures which the special committee of the legislature has been working on for a year past, Assemblyman Wallace Ingalls of Racine, a member of that committee and also candidate for the republican nomination for congress, is visiting in Germany, examining the industrial insurance system of that country. In a Berlin dispatch it is announced that Mr. Ingalls is leaving Berlin to return to the United States, a converted advocate of the German plan of insurance and considers it the best in the world.

"The insurance question," he said today, "will become an important feature in state legislation in America. The German system seems to me to offer the best model. It is more readily adaptable to American conditions than is the compulsory system in vogue in England. It protects workmen and their families and tends to stimulate self-respect and independence. Its effects can be seen plainly in the general condition of the German working population."

Mr. Ingalls will lay the results of his inquiry before the Wisconsin authorities upon his return.

ELECTION TUESDAY.

It is perhaps again necessary to call the attention of the voters to the fact that on Tuesday next there will be held the annual spring election at which time a city treasurer, a city attorney, school commissioner at large, a justice of the peace and aldermen and supervisors in the five wards will be chosen. It is important that the citizens appreciate the importance of this election and go to the polls to exercise their rights of franchise by voting. The republican ticket from top to bottom needs no specific endorsement as the candidates named are all good, true, honest men and deserve the support of every voter.

Several of the radical newspapers about the state continue to harp on the great work done by the insurgents in congress, forgetting that even the dupes of "insurgency," Wisconsin's senior senator, admits that they accomplished but little. However it gives them something to crow over and the majority of them are not republican papers, and like the Milwaukee Journal, is out for a "rule or ruin" policy.

Janesville may be the location of another set of railway yards which will be as large as those already established by the Northwestern south of the city. The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road is seriously considering a project to place Janesville on the main line between Milwaukee and Kansas City. May the plan carry when it is presented at the directors' meeting of the road and construction begins as soon as possible.

Nearness warfare has dropped to the inside news pages these days waiting for the reappearance of that wonderful army of conquest which disappeared in a night and is said to be hiding in the mountains waiting for repeating shot-guns before taking the field again. Meanwhile the Nicaraguan boys are scratching up bomb-proof houses for themselves during the piping times of peace.

Now that Colonel Roosevelt has begun sending home bullets that he must watch carefully against any indications. "The man who can tell an 'Old Master' at a glance would be unable to distinguish the fraud from the genuine in this case.

March has gone and April is here. It is the April showers that bring the May flowers but despite the old adage many have already bloomed in March. However the man who shivered now all winter, damped his ashes, and groaned over the coal bills, can now look forward to a long, hard summer with the lawn mower and garden.

Eddie Fay is under arrest in New York City guarded by fifty deputy United States marshals who do not intend to have him escape before he is landed in a federal prison, if it is possible. If Fay has lost none of his cunning of past years those fifty men will be none too many to prevent his being reported missing some fine morning.

Colonel Roosevelt is due to make a few remarks in Italy this coming week and it will be interesting to note what he has to say about the Pope, the king of Italy and the method of government over there. If he talks as he did to the Egyptians he may find that his visit is not welcome.

Indiana should pass some stringent laws to prevent the kidnapping of cities within its state limits. Chicago is somewhat fond of the idea of Gary becoming a bigger city than she is and almost within sight of the southern limits of the Illinois state line too.

Heart to Heart Talks.

HEART TREASURES.

In the windows of a church hangs a beautiful painting of the Madonna and the Child.

The picture cost $1,000 and was donated by a member of the church. The donor, you conclude, was some wealthy member of the congregation.

No.

The picture was presented by one of the humblest members, Mrs. Anna Kuehn, a widow and a washerwoman.

The story that goes with the picture is greater than the picture—and more beautiful.

The gift was a memorial of the poor woman's dead boy, her only child, who died at the age of eight years, several years ago.

By patient toil at the washbasin, by the most pinching economy, Mrs. Kuehn saved the thousand dollars.

When the reporters visited her humble home this woman, who had given much more than the "widow's mite," who had given grudging years of toil and anxious hours of close savings, asked that her name should not be used.

"It was for my little boy who died," she said, "it makes no difference to other people."

"A waste of good money," says the utilitarian.

Let's see.

Do you remember the immortal story of the woman who poured her costly ornaments at the feet of the Christ 2,000 years ago?

And do you remember what the disciples said?

They said it was a waste of money—the foolish woman should have sold the precious spices and given the money to the poor.

The Master saw it differently.

He knew better than his poor fishermen followers the tremendous value of a genuine sentiment. He rightly estimated the priceless rarity of a real heart tribute.

And so exalted a place did he find for the line act of that woman that he declared her story should be told to the ends of the earth. And it has been so told.

Why does the world still hug to its heart that Bethany story?

Why is the world touched by the tale of the poor woman who hid in her heart a great picture in honor of her baby boy?

Why? Because, my friend, there are things of more value in this world than money or success or fame or pleasure. Kill in the heart of a woman her love for her child and nothing remains.

The light of the whole world dies when love is done.

STUBBS LAUDS ANNE MORGAN.

Governor of Kansas Impressed at William Allen White's Dinner.

Topeka, Kan., Apr. 1.—"She is a boss master, square dealer and invincible, all three combined. She is pretty, attractive and very sensible. This is the way Gov. Stubbs sized up Miss Anne Morgan, daughter of J.

Pierpont Morgan, upon his return from Emporia, where he met her at William Allen White's dinner.

"That girl is sure to do a power of good in this world," the governor said. "She surprised me at her line of thought. She is big enough to look clear over her father's pile of gold and see the common people. She is not looking for one of those foreign 'critters' with a title. She wants to do something worth while for humanity, and she will do it."

So many names have been suggested that the last man to join the list would not excite much curiosity except for the fact that he is not a member of the house himself. It is Asher C. Hinds, the present parliamentarian. His name has been suggested by Representative Polindexter and Victor Mordock, who declares that "reforms" must be introduced. They have suggested his name as a compromise candidate between the Democrats and insurgents, as he would rule without prejudice from either party.

Representative Polindexter, who is one of the prominent members of the insurgent body, said:

insurgent in official life at Washington to have his name suggested for speaker of the house of representatives. While matters seem to be patched up smoothly for the present with Uncle Joe Cannon in the chair, it is generally thought that even though he complete the present term he will not be again selected as speaker and some of the insurgent members predict his downfall even before the end of this session.

A Voluntary Testimonial

I am positively extracting hundreds of teeth without a particle of pain to the patient. It's hard to believe it, but it is the truth.

Mr. David Walrath, 421 Fifth Ave., gratuitously offered permission to the use of his name in this article, to the effect that I extracted four teeth for him Monday afternoon absolutely without pain to him.

All of his former experiences have been a terror to remember, but this time it was different.

So it will be in your case if you select me to do your next Dental work.

DEAD BODY OF BABY FOUND BY ROADSIDE IN MONTEREY TODAY

And Post Mortem Examination by Two Physicians at City Hall Established Theory of Infanticide.

Who wrapped the corpse of a fully developed female child, weighing about eight pounds, in the corner supplement of a last Sunday's paper and placed it by the roadside and embankment just west of the Riverside street, C. & N. W. viaduct, sometime before sunrise this morning? Who was guilty of the criminal neglect, which gave this child no chance to live even after it had breathed? And how was a portion of the back of the skull, about an inch in diameter, crushed in before life was extinct? These are questions which are perplexing the police officers and they intend to find the answers.

Night Switchman Connors made the gruesome discovery after passing under the arch about nine o'clock this morning and communicated with Chief Appleby. The officers at first took it to be an "All Fools' Day Kid" and the patrol wagon was not sent to Monterey until the report had been confirmed by Supt. Arthur Jones of the wooden mills. Rev. W. P. Christy and a companion who had been fishing in that vicinity covered the corpse with an old umbrella and were guarding it when the wagon arrived.

District Attorney Fisher was in Deloit and Attorney O. A. Costello gave directions that a post-mortem examination of the remains be made in order to determine, if possible, whether or not the child had been born dead. Accordingly, Drs. Chas. Sutherland and W. H. Judd were summoned to the basement of the city hall and conducted an exhaustive investigation.

They found that the lungs crept into the stomach and floated in water, proving that the infant had breathed before death. But the infant had never been covered. From the front of the body, the absence of any place over the eyes, and other signs it appeared that its advent into this world had occurred but a few hours, at most, before death. A portion of the back of the skull, about the diameter of a hammer's head, had been broken in though the scalp was intact, and blood clots which had formed around this break plainly showed that the impact had come before death. A fall or an intentional blow with some blunt instrument might have caused it. The child was unusually well developed—a remarkably fine baby according to the physicians.

The paper in which the body was wrapped had not been tied and yet it was not torn or spread out. This circumstance seemed to upset the theory that it might have been thrown down the embankment or tossed from a moving train. But if it was deliberately placed in the exposed position where it was found, it must have been with the idea of ultimate discovery. For only a few yards down the slope to the river is a ditch in which it could easily have been concealed.

No effort will be spared to ferret out the mystery. The corpse will probably be buried in the Potter's field at the cemetery sometime today.

A Phasant's Blind Flight.
Speaking of the habits of phasants, Bailey's Magazine says:
"A very curious incident was recorded in October, 1893. A hen pheasant was flushed in a field of turnips, and as she got up flew into a piece of rotten, wet leaf, which clung around her head, completely enveloping it and blindfolding her. She kept ahead to wind, so that the wet leaf still remained plastered over her eyes, and in this plight fluttered higher till she became exhausted and gradually sank to earth again.
"The frequency with which phasants fly through windows, sometimes with fatal results, is thought to be due to the bird in its haste being deceived by the reflection in the glass of the landscape behind it."

CITY ATTORNEY AN IMPORTANT ISSUE

Facts About the Situation—City is Out-Generalized—Second Ward Loses $55,000 Tax Value—Battle is Hardly Commenced.

At the coming municipal election the only important issue is the election of a city attorney. In their selection of any officer the voters should be, and usually are, governed solely by what will be for their best interests as residents and taxpayers. No political question is ever wisely considered except upon that basis. Personalities, class bias and false issues have no place therein. In the exact proportion that voters will permit appeals to their prejudices and feelings to influence their vote, do they decide upon an issue against the public and their own good. The following statement is made feeling that the voters want to decide this issue upon its merits and according to the facts alone. And at the outset Mr. Burpee wishes it distinctly understood that if elected, he will bend every effort to the fearless and diligent prosecution of all city matters and will be influenced by no consideration except the good of the people of the city. He holds no position from any public service corporation and will feel in duty bound to protect the people's rights as to any and all of them. This statement is prompted by no interest except to inform the voters of the serious situation with which they are face to face.

The present city attorney has held that office for four years and is a candidate for reelection. He asks the voters to support him upon the sole ground that he has been fighting the water and gas companies of the city, and while being in favor of the examination of those companies, the following facts are set forth that the voters may know the importance of the undertaking and the necessity of being represented therein by the best counsel obtainable. About Jan. 18, 1909, he filed with the Railroad Commission complaints against these two companies to have the commission investigate the rates charged by them, not to the city, but to the consumer and gas consumer. Under the law this complaint could be filed by any consumer and is not his main interest in municipal matters. Being city attorney, it would seem that his main interest and worry should be the city's rates and not those of the individual consumers. But for reasons best known to himself and from all appearances largely political the city attorney has such filed these complaints on behalf of the consumers alone.

Upon filing these complaints the commission ordered its engineers to make a physical valuation of the plants of these companies as a basis to work upon; a tentative valuation as it is called in the law, the final valuation to be determined, of course, after a trial upon the merits and at the end of a lawsuit. The tentative valuation of the water company was fixed at $229,162 and that of the gas company at $186,541. When all the evidence as to actual value is before the commission, is there not grave danger that these figures will be greatly increased unless the city is represented with skill and ability? They cannot be treated as final, as the city at any time treats them in its report to the council, wherein he says that the city has the right to buy these plants at the valuation made by the commission. He has kept the source of his information dark but whatever it may be it is wrong. The commission's valuation is only for the purpose of fixing rates. The law provides that the city can buy the works. An action in court is required and a verdict of a jury both as to the necessity of sale and as to plants over and the value thereof.

Nothing has been done further than starting a lawsuit, and no one, not even the city attorney himself, dare hazard an opinion as to the result of the litigation. The only present certain fact is that the city is involved in the biggest and most important lawsuits it has had in many years.

Some results are already clear. The gas company has for some years paid taxes on an assessed valuation of $205,000, being of course eighty per cent of the actual value of its property as determined by the assessors. The actual valuation of the gas company, as determined by the commission's expert engineers, will hereafter have to pay taxes on only $149,223. That gas of $55,767 is assessed in the Second Ward and this means a loss to that ward of $117,177 per thousand, or by way of taxes of $67,552 annually, which saving, of course, means a corresponding loss to the taxpayers of the second ward. The same situation prevails as to the water company, but to a smaller extent.

The taxpayer should remember that promises of good things to occur in the future may brighten his prospects, but are small help to pay his taxes.

Now, John Winans, then mayor of the city drew the contract which was made with water company May 1, 1887, and it was then, and has ever since by those who know best, been regarded as the most favorable water contract had by any city in the state. Under it the water company agreed to supply the first 180 fire hydrants and water therefor for $4200 or $23.33 per hydrant annually. In addition the company agreed to furnish entirely free of charge water for flushing sewers, drains and street gutters not exceeding two hours a day, and water for public schools, city buildings and city offices and churches, for two display fountains, and five public drinking fountains. This requires the water company to furnish free water for the city hall, public library, three fire stations, ten school houses, and thirteen churches at the present time.

As a result of the city attorney's lawsuit and under a provision in the railroad commission law, the water company has surrendered its franchise or contract with the city and applied for and received an indeterminate permit from the State of Wisconsin. The effect of this, under the law, is to relieve this company from the obligations of its contract with the city. This contract is now at an end and the rights of the company and the city are determined altogether by the state laws. One of the provisions of this law is that the water company is forbidden from furnishing any water free of charge whether to city, school or church. The result of this is that every gallon of water heretofore and free of charge by these various institutions, will now have to be paid for. Consequently the free water under the contract now abandoned amounts to 150,000 gallons per day and based upon the very low price secured by the Chicago and Northwestern Railway Company, at its new yards of 5 cents per 1000 gallons and for not less than 150,000 gallons daily, amounts to $750 per day or $273.75 annually. This is a minimum based upon that much water being used in one institution. But the city's free water is used in separate places and each place paying a rate according to the amount used, the minimum of 5 cents mentioned may be found too small. In any event the certain loss to the city and its institutions in free water alone amounts to $273.75 annually and must be paid by the taxpayers and consumers.

Let us examine a little further the hydrant rental proposition. As already stated, the first 180 hydrants and water cost $23.33 apiece annually. In its contract the water company also bound itself to extend its water mains upon any street, whenever ordered by the common council and to have a hydrant upon every 400 feet of such extension, for which the city agreed to pay $25.00 annually per hydrant. This, of course, is for hydrants in excess of the original 180. The city now has 300 hydrants and when the new deal contract was paying for the same at the rate mentioned. Under the new contract before the commission a new rate will be fixed. For the purpose of comparison the water contract of the city of Detroit provides for the payment of $35 annually for the first 100 hydrants and $40 per annum for additional hydrants. It is a well established and common fact that the city of Janesville has absolutely the lowest hydrant rental under its contract of any city in the state. It is also a well known fact that the water company has for years been complaining about its losses consequent upon its free water and low hydrant rate to the city and attempted to get its contract modified but has never succeeded. Judging from what other cities are paying for similar service it is as certain as anything can be before the fact is decided that the city's hydrant rental will be raised. Judging from the same evidence if it is raised at all it will be raised at least $10 per hydrant which means an annual increase of $3000.00. Together with the free water which we have an annual increase in taxation of $2737.50 at the least and in all probability more. All well informed citizens are unanimous on this proposition.

It is only fair to assume that the water company and its attorneys with all the information at hand knew what they were doing when they made the contract of abandoning their franchise and contract. They accepted the state's indeterminate permit. They knew exactly how a free water the company was furnishing the city and its institutions and that the hydrant rentals in all other cities in the state range from $35 to $70 per hydrant annually. They knew the law applicable to the situation and applied for the change. The city attorney did not apply to the commission for an extension of the water company's contract, but not canceling nor antipathetic the present contract as well as that of individual consumers whose behalf the attorney proceeded. Immediately when the city attorney was notified that the application for the indeterminate permit had been made, he attempted to file a protest but as he had no good, as the commission had the right to allow a law to be changed asked for. All of which comes to show these things: first, the city attorney was clearly outgeneralized in the contest because he did not anticipate the move that was made; second, he considered the city a contract a very advantageous one, which he did not want surrendered, but found himself unable to save, and third, that he cannot dare to claim anything for the city, as a corporation, from the litigation into which he has plunged it. If his hope, as a result of the not permit him of claim, he is not plucked to assume that a "million" been to the above statement as to its result. That the city attorney has been outgeneralized and that the city is a result of the water company's move was really due to face with a serious and in no situation was anticipated by the city council when it authorized the mayor against a city attorney's wish to employ special counsel to pull the city out of its predicament. It is not unfair to assume that had the council been informed of the danger, as it should have been, it would have made a more careful investigation before consenting to lose the whole water contract and all its valuable rights thereunder with no assurance of gain and a certain assurance of loss.

But it is asked, what about the lowering of rates to the consumer. The first thing about it is date. Experience not ancient should convince all men that there may be a revision upward as well as downward and no one can tell until the revision is announced. The second is that, if lowered, will the rates be lowered sufficiently to offset the increase in taxation already mentioned? The third is, where does the taxpayer come in who is not a water-taker? The city has almost 60 miles of streets and the water company has only 34 miles of mains. Besides there are many people, living on streets with water mains who are not water-takers. What will these people gain by an increase in taxation? Every taxpayer in the city who takes city water, is bound to lose financially by this litigation. No matter what the result, no one who wins. Exactly the same is true of those taxpayers who consume no gas. And this shows more than ever that so far as any benefits are concerned the individual water and gas consumers of the city are primarily interested in these lawsuits rather than the city at large. That the city at large stands to lose no matter how it comes out is an indisputable fact.

Prior to the commencement of the proceeding against the water company the common council ordered the company to extend its mains on several streets. Under its contract the company had no discretion in the matter, nor did it, question of the return on the investment enter in. All the city had to do was to withhold the hydrant rentals until its order was complied with. Since these proceedings and the surrender of the contract, the company has refused to make the ordered extensions, and all extensions will now have to be made on the commission and will only be ordered when the commission is convinced that the number of water-takers is sufficient to yield a fair return on the cost of extension. The city of Janesville has lost this valuable right because the city attorney was outgeneralized as already stated, and must now go to Madison to get the extensions ordered if the water company should refuse to build them. Does it occur to you that this means continued litigation?

AND WHERE WILL SPRING BROOK GIVE ITS FINEST PROTECTION UNDER THIS CONDITION OF AFFAIRS.

All citizens are interested in our fire protection and for obvious reasons. Under the abandoned water contract the company must furnish free the plant to any person who would install a private sprinkling or fire protection plant on his premises. This is an excellent provision in the contract because it stimulates people at their own expense to increase the fire protection which is a good thing for everybody. Many, indeed, most of the city's factories have installed hydrants and sprinkling systems at their own expense. Hereafter every plant of this kind must pay for the water used. This privilege has also been lost and that is of importance to every manufacturer and every factory-laud in the city.

Now then where are we at? The city is in this fight and it must be fought out. Oh, but says some one, the Railroad Commission will take care of us all right. This commission hears and decides disputes relating to public service corporations. It sits as a court and does not do the trying. Of course, nobody gets fooled by such buncombe. The city is in the biggest lawsuit it has probably ever had. What has been done can not be undone. What has been stated is simply a catalogue of results that we know have already occurred. It is submitted as a warning to the voters so that they may protect themselves against blunders that may cause similar results in the future, in the same litigation. In the lawsuit the water company (and what is stated in this paper applies with equal force to the gas company) represented by the best attorneys will bend every energy and light to the utmost to raise the valuation of its property as high as possible above the tentative valuation already mentioned; to raise the hydrant rentals of the city as high as possible; to get the largest possible price for all the water now furnished free to church, school and city; to keep the present rate to water consumers; to get its operating expenses as high as possible (and remember even run talk about the operating expenses that you must include in this item interest on the bonded indebtedness of the plant.)

Each one of the issues involved is one tremendous lawsuit which is so clear that you do not need to be told. The city must fight these issues out and be prepared for every move. The city of Janesville is now engaged in one of these investigations and has already spent in experts alone between $10,000 and $12,000. It sits as a court and does not do the trying. Of course, nobody gets fooled by such buncombe. The city is in the biggest lawsuit it has probably ever had. What has been done can not be undone. What has been stated is simply a catalogue of results that we know have already occurred. It is submitted as a warning to the voters so that they may protect themselves against blunders that may cause similar results in the future, in the same litigation. In the lawsuit the water company (and what is stated in this paper applies with equal force to the gas company) represented by the best attorneys will bend every energy and light to the utmost to raise the valuation of its property as high as possible above the tentative valuation already mentioned; to raise the hydrant rentals of the city as high as possible; to get the largest possible price for all the water now furnished free to church, school and city; to keep the present rate to water consumers; to get its operating expenses as high as possible (and remember even run talk about the operating expenses that you must include in this item interest on the bonded indebtedness of the plant.)

Mr. Burpee unreservedly pledges himself to prosecute these cases and to contest every issue to the best of his ability.

BRANDED BY TARTARS.

A Greek Robber Who Was Tattooed From Head to Foot.

A remarkable case of tattooing came to light in Professor Vienna's lecture room in a hospital in Vienna a number of years ago. The man was the subject of a lecture, and one of the spectators at first mistook him for a bronze statue. He was tattooed from head to foot, and not a quarter of a square inch of his entire person was intact.

The skin presented an appearance resembling the tracery of an exceedingly rich cashmere shawl. The coloring was done with indigo principally, with enough red inserted here and there to give it effect. His name was George Constantine, a Greek by birth, who with a band of robbers entered Chinese Tartary to commit depredations. The gang was captured, and this man, with others, was ordered by the ruler to be branded in this manner.

On the palms of his hands letters were tattooed which explained that he was "the greatest rascal and thief in the world." It took three months to tattoo him, the indigo being pricked into the skin. The designs represented elephants, lions, tigers and birds, with letters worked in between. A couple of dragons ornamented his forehead. He said his body averted his forehead very much at the time and ever since had been sensitive to changes in the weather.—Westminster Gazette.

Peary's Own Story

Thrilling Adventures in Arctic Hunting: Preparations for the Long Night

Here in quick, terse language as vivid and dynamic as lightning, Commander Peary describes the great hunting; the stocking up of game food,—deer, musk oxen, and polar bear; the laying-to of the Roosevelt for the long winter night amid the ice, awaiting the Spring and the sunlight for the final dash.

No narrative since Caesar's own book on the Gallic Wars has contained such graphic detail handled in so simple and self-revelatory a style. De Bello Gallico is a Latin Classic; Peary's Discovery of the North Pole, as instalment after instalment appears, is slowly forming the conviction in men's minds that here is an Anglo-Saxon Classic.

The Great Millionaire Mill

The Story of the Southern Pacific Railroad System and the Great Fortunes Created by It

By Charles Edward Russell

For the first time the true record of this powerful organization is recounted, giving information from private letters, court records, etc. Mr. Russell's minute analysis of the careers of Collis P. Huntington, Leland Stanford, Charles Crocker and Mark Hopkins throws a strong searchlight upon American railroad methods; shows how the whole state of California was throttled; how the "ultimate consumer" has had a staggering burden of debt put upon his shoulders to increase his cost of living.

The Vast Riches of Alaska

"Will the Morgan-Guggenheim Combination Acquire Them or Will They Benefit the Whole People?"

By Benjamin B. Hampton

If you read nothing else in the whole month of April we urge you to read this Alaskan sensation. It tells the story of the great natural wealth of Alaska in figures that no mind can grasp. One estimate of the gold, the copper and the coal amounts to $17,079,500,000, and from this the estimates range as high as one trillion, five hundred and thirteen billion, nine hundred and thirty-five million dollars!

Will you and your sons inherit this property? Or will it fall into the hands of the Morgans, the Guggenheims, the Rothschilds and perhaps other great trusts?

PINCHOT IN COPENHAGEN WILL MEET ROOSEVELT

Ex-Forester Refuses to Say That He Was Summoned by Special Request.

Copenhagen, Apr. 1.—Gifford Pinchot, the former chief forester of the United States, arrived here last night. He is a guest at the British legation, where he is visiting his sister, Lady Johnstone, wife of Sir Alan Johnstone, the British minister to Denmark.

Mr. Pinchot said that he will meet Col. Roosevelt before the latter sails for America, but would discuss neither the object of the meeting nor any connection it might have with politics.

Mr. Pinchot is a guest at the British legation, where he is visiting his sister, Lady Johnstone, wife of Sir Alan Johnstone, the British minister to Denmark.

Mr. Pinchot, when seen soon after his arrival refused to discuss politics, but he informed the correspondent that he intended to study Danish agriculture, especially the co-operation system, and the Danish forest administration. He added that he expects to meet Col. Roosevelt either in Copenhagen or London, but he was very silent when questioned as to whether he had been summoned to a conference with the ex-president or was seeking a meeting with Col. Roosevelt on his own initiative to discuss with him the forestry question.

Upon embarking at New York Mr. Pinchot was listed as "Gaylord Smith." In order that he might avoid reporters, however, once out of New York harbor, he made no attempt to conceal his identity and conversed freely with other passengers.

Ex-President Roosevelt will spend a day in Copenhagen on his way to Christchurch.

King Haakon has invited Col. Roosevelt to be his guest at the palace during his stay here.

DON'T BE BALD

Almost Any One May Secure a Splendid Growth of Hair

You can easily find out for yourself if your hair needs nourishment. If it is thinning, getting dry, harsh and brittle, or splitting at the ends. You simply have to pull a hair from the top of your head and closely examine its root. If the bulb is plump and rosy it is all right; if it is white and shrunken your hair is diseased and needs nourishment.

We have a remedy for hair troubles that cannot be surpassed. It has a record of growing hair and curing baldness in 100 out of 100 cases where used according to directions for a reasonable length of time. It will even grow hair on bald heads. If the scalp is not grazed and shiny. That may seem like a strong statement—it is, and we mean it to be, and no one should doubt it until they have put our claims to an actual test.

We are so sure that Rosall "93" Hair Tonic will completely eradicate dandruff, prevent baldness, stimulate the scalp and hair roots, stop falling hair and grow new hair, that we personally give our positive guarantee to refund every penny paid for Rosall "93" Hair Tonic in every instance where it does not do as we claim or fails to give entire satisfaction to the user.

Rosall "93" Hair Tonic is as pleasant to use as clear spring water. It is perfumed with a pleasant odor, and does not grease or gum the hair. We have it in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. We urge you to try Rosall "93" Hair Tonic on our recommendation and with our guarantee back of it. You certainly take no risk. Remember, you can obtain Rosall Remedies in Jansville only at our store, The Rosall Store, The Smith Drug Co.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

"GOOD housekeepers are not goodhomemakers," said a prominent club woman in a lecture recently. "The housekeeper's eternal war against dirt, she went on, 'makes her a slave and makes martyrs of her family. She has an idea that when she dies St. Peter will ask her how many pairs of socks she mended or how many buttons she has sewed on. She does not know that it is better to be cheerful and sympathetic, the comforting homemaker, than to have kept the house in such immaculate order.'"

I think that that is a very good reminder for this time of year. For this is the time when the "eternal war against dirt" is apt to be waged most hotly and the martyrdom of the rest of the family to be correspondingly severe.

Now a perfectly immaculate house is a beautiful and desirable thing to be sure. Do not think I am denying that.

But when any other beautiful and desirable thing, a gown, a trip, a piece of jewelry—costs too much, you would think yourself weak if you did not have the strength of mind to turn your back on it, wouldn't you?

Then, when a perfectly immaculate house costs so much mental and physical strength that you cannot be yourself for weeks, is it any less a weakness not to be able to deny yourself that luxury?

In a story in a recent issue of a well known magazine a man and a woman are having a discussion about another woman who "works herself to a frazzle trying to make things nice for her husband" while her husband "doesn't seem to appreciate it a bit."

One of the marks of his lack of appreciation is that he seldom spends his evenings with her.

The man who is discussing the matter suggests that perhaps this immaculate housewife is too tired to make a very social companion for a man who has worked hard all day.

"But she gets tired slaving for him," flashes back the woman who is discussing the matter.

The busy man let his paper drop and put the tips of his fingers together as he always did when tackling a legal problem at the office.

"Oh, that's just it," he said speculatively; "does she?"

For a moment the slender lady of it, she looked at him. "Of course she does," was emphatic when it came.

"Perhaps he'd rather have other outward and visible signs of her hard and spiritual grace. It may be, you know, that he isn't really keen about perfect housekeeping."

"Any decent man likes cleanliness and order,"

"In moderation, in moderation. There's a type of women with whom perfect housekeeping is not a self-sacrifice, but self-indulgence. The rest of the family are the sacrifice."

"I think that's a marvelously good analysis of the case. I take off my hat to the 'Busy Man.'"

If a peck of all the men in the land could be taken on the question, "Which would you rather have, a perfectly immaculate house with a third-rate, nervous wife within it, or a normal, well-balanced, careful wife in a comparatively clean house?" I have an idea the result would be a unanimous vote on our side.

But I'll leave you to guess which.

Now when you sally forth with mop and dust pan and broom and all the other impedimenta of war this spring, suppose you take along with you the motto that helped to make the Athenians the great people they were—

"Nothing in excess."

And suppose you apply it to cleanliness.

Ruth Cameron

OUR SHADOWS.

By MARY RUSSELL.

Have you ever desired anything greatly and have some new thought enthusiast tell you, with the dictum of finality, that to earnestly desire to possess? And what did you really get by it?

Half the theoretical new thought is a jumble of words that even its authors cannot untangle into plain, coherent good sense.

But the other half is worth while. The better in all things being for good, is better and more comforting than all things are good as they stand.

To my there is no evil when the world reels with the shame of things as they are, in to bury our heads in the sand of folly and think that we have done our duty.

That there is a wise plan we must honor and believe. It is possible to feel assured that life and all nature is just a jumbled mass that happened to be and that it asserts itself as it pleases. There must be a plan back of it all. Our eyes are blind to some parts of the divine will but certain paths are plain.

Be honest. Honesty is more than to refrain from stealing a purse. It is more than in taking advantage of a friend in distress and securing for our own comfort a lot of this world's goods. It is honesty in your attitude towards your fellow man. Honesty in your relations to women. Honesty in your thoughts and honest with yourself. We cheat ourselves more than we do anyone else, for our every dishonest act comes back upon us with interest at an enormous rate. Don't pay it, but make a new start with an honest purpose. Policy is no just ground for honesty. It often justifies a dishonest action but never one that will stand the test of public opinion.

Be truthful. True to your friends and your family. True to your religion and to your God. True to your better, higher self. We lie to ourselves every day. We give ourselves credit for thoughts and emotions that we do not dare to test. Our business and home lives are full of the big and little untruths that make our social system a byword, a mockery.

Be kind. And this is the last and greatest of all. It is not kind to be dishonest. It is not kind to be untruthful. Be kind enough to be honest with your self, and to be truthful to your fellow man, and be kind to everybody. This is not a virtue that can pick the object on which to spend itself. To me, kindly kind the world is full of opportunities. Every hour in the day—every walk in life—every emotion in the heart can be regulated by this thought.

"Our acts our angels are. Or good or ill. On fatal shadow that walks by us still."

Evening Costume of Pale Rose Satin

In this princess gown of palest rose satin created by that master of clothes artists, the great Worth of Paris, is seen the dainty back, the slender-fitted hips and the long, pointed train which distinguishes the costume as a genuine work of the fashionable French matron. The bodice which is cut very low at back and front, is trimmed with jet-embroidered winglike draperies of satin which a long-shouldered effect and overlaying diaphanous sleeves of draped rose satin. The front of the dress has a tablier of jet-embroidered net over which is a scarf, draping of satin extending from the left shoulder to the right side of the skirt.

AFTER FOUR YEARS OF MISERY

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Baltimore, Md.—"For four years my life was a misery to me. I suffered from irregularities, terrible dragging sensations, extreme nervousness, and that all gone feeling in my stomach. I had given up hope of ever being well when I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Then I felt as though new life had been given me, and I am recommending it to all my friends."—Mrs. W. S. Poirer, 2207 W. Franklin St., Baltimore, Md.

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has stood the test of years and to-day is more widely and successfully used than any other female remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed.

If you are suffering from any of these ailments, don't give up hope until you have given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice write to Mrs. E. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. She has guided thousands to health, freed of disease.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is for sale at Smith's Pharmacy, The Rexall Store, as well as other Patent Medicines advertised in this paper.

Every room that is occupied should be thoroughly aired each day. It should be remembered that a large volume of air rushing through the house will remove the impure air more effectively in ten minutes than an hour's airing with windows partly opened and doors closed.—Good Housekeeping.

SUGGESTION AND DIGESTION.

Much has been said about mastication as an aid to digestion and therefore to health. This is good; pulverizing the food favors mixing of digestive fluids; but thought controls digestion and it is through contact, by taste, that the digestive flow is stimulated. And thought can be directed. Digestion can take away appetite and stop digestion; equally, can appreciation aid it naturally. Know what foods are good and why, cultivate a taste, a liking for good foods and learn to enjoy them. It is the subconscious mind that influences digestion, but it is constantly subject to suggestion, good, bad or indifferent. Let it be good. Hold the food long in the mouth and enjoy it, selecting the best.

JUDGE GRIMM ON THE AUTOMOBILEDUTIES AND RIGHTS OF DRIVERS
DEFINED.

12 MILE LAW RESTRICTED

By Necessity of at All Times Exercising "Ordinary Care"—The Joy Rider's Mania.

In reversing the findings of the jury in the (Hogsdon) automobile damage suit which was recently tried at Jefferson, Circuit Judge George Grimm rendered an opinion in which he took occasion to define at some length the rights and duties of automobile owners. The following excerpt will be of interest to the local drivers:

"Automobiles and similar motor vehicles have equal rights with conveyances drawn by horses, and with pedestrians upon the public streets. This right is recognized by statute, although it existed independent thereof. The legislature, however, also recognizing an element of public danger, connected with the use of motor vehicles in common use, has prescribed certain specific rules regulating their use, and imposed penalties for their violation. Thus, for instance, it has ordered that every automobile shall be equipped with lights, bell, horn, or other signal device; that the light shall be lit one hour after sunset and not extinguished before one hour before sunrise; that the driver shall stop and under circumstances render assistance to anyone whose horses are frightened by the automobile; and that the speed shall never exceed twenty-five miles per hour upon public highways outside the corporate limits of a city or village, nor twelve miles per hour within such corporate limits. These various provisions do not, however, abrogate the common law rules or restrict their application in the slightest degree. It is still now, as theretofore, the duty of automobile drivers, as it is the duty of all persons using the public streets, under any and all circumstances and conditions, to exercise 'ordinary care'."

"The term 'ordinary care' has a clearly defined meaning in the law: It is such care as persons of ordinary prudence and intelligence 'usually exercise under the same or similar circumstances.' What degree of care may in a given case constitute 'ordinary care' depends entirely upon the situation and attending circumstances. In other words, a degree of care, which under certain circumstances, might be ample to hold one blameless, might under other circumstances be entirely insufficient. One driving an automobile in a public street frequented by pedestrians is bound to anticipate that children as well as adults are liable to cross the street at any time; and that children do not usually exercise as much care as adults. They are more thoughtless, frequently engrossed in sports, and, instinctively relying upon their natural activity and agility, the dangers for them than for adults of ripe experience and caution. Therefore, although the statute does not under present circumstances forbid driving at a rate of speed as great as twelve miles an hour even in a city, it by no means follows that it is always lawful to do so. The rate of speed is never a lawful rate if it exceeds a rate which under the existing circumstances is not consistent with ordinary care. The greater the danger of injuring others and of colliding with vehicles or pedestrians, the slower the speed must necessarily be; and in a crowded street a mere creeping pace may be the only lawful one. The same principle applies in the use of country roads. Thus, our supreme court has just decided that it is negligence as a matter of law for anyone to drive in the night time at a rate of speed faster than will permit him to come to a stop within the distance his lights enable him to clearly see ahead."

"It is the constant, flagrant disregard by many of the motorists of the wholesome rules of the law, and of the safety and lives of their fellow beings in the road, that intoxicating race for personal pleasure that creates the prejudice which vents itself at the first opportunity offered. Men of high social standing, the community whom they live have been to pass at a mad pace the unfortunate driver of a team of horses whose fright has crowded them to the furthest limits of the highway into an open ditch, or overturned the buggy with the occupants, without a thought of lending a helping hand; while gayly dressed women, occupying the soft cushioned seats, shout with glee at the 'countryman's' discomfiture, retarding one of nothing so much as the stories of the 'vestal virgins' of Rome applauding the victorious gladiators as they plunge his dagger in the bosom of the vanquished victim at his feet. Who that has had occasion to frequent public streets since automobiles have come into general use has not observed instances of half-breath escapes by pedestrians from peril so imminent that one's heart for the moment ceased its beating, due to the savage, eye, murderous recklessness of the driver. Often too, the mad pace is not the only intoxicant to the senses indulged in, but the brain has been befogged, the eye dazzled, and the hand at the wheel made shaky by previous indulgence in more certain and effective means—until it seems as though the devil himself were sitting at the helm and having rare sport in congenial companionship."

"It is but one exemplification of 'Man's inhumanity to man' but it is so wanton and depraved that it outrages the sense of every right thinking person. 'Pho, pho, pho,' that ridiculous exclamation, can ever be said to be righteous! Invents with the oidium in some degree at least also, the large portion of automobiles, whose sense or fellow feeling is not blunted by the possession of a 'new toy' so as to make them forget their brother's safety in seeking their own pleasure. But that such is the case is frequently evidenced by the verdicts of juries. It is then that the courts are called upon to see that the innocent shall not suffer because of the misdeeds of others."

BERNARD DALY WINS
DESERVED APPLAUSE"Sweet Innifallen" Given For Mercy
Hospital Under Auspices of K.
C. Lodge, Well-Received.

Bernard Daly, who is justly called Erin's Sweet Singer, appeared at the Myers Hotel last night in his newest play, "Sweet Innifallen" before a large and capacity house which assembled both from the desire to hear the star and at the same time for the effort to aid the Mercy Hospital. That the council had chosen a play that met with the hearty approval of the audience was shown by the applause which greeted Daly's songs.

"Sweet Innifallen" as a play touches the heart of every Irishman for its appeal is natural and not exaggerated. While Squire Carlton is cruel and unscrupulous, there are many whose names appear in the history of the Emerald Isle beside whose deeds Carlton's pale into insignificance. His attempt to win Grace Moore for his bride, in spite of her love for Gerald O'Brien by implicating her brother in a murder of which he was innocent, affords a dark look for all concerned for a time. But after he turns on his heel, Myra Regan, who is the real murderer, the tide changes. Regan confesses and the good Squire is undone, while the four lovers are united.

To Bernard Daly belongs the credit of bringing the play up above the common level. His soft tenor voice, both in speech and song, has a charm that is hard to define and he makes the Irish brogue something to be loved instead of a cause for amusement. He sings four songs, all expressing the true Irish spirit and last night everyone of them was heartily applauded, especially "The Weaving of the Green."

With regard to the remainder of the cast, Currie Lamont as Nora Shannon, makes a very charming Irish colleen, while Mrs. Anna Morrison makes Mrs. O'Malley a very real, valuable character. Norbert A. Myers was handsome in the part of Squire Carlton and Marguerite Hart as Grace Moore, made an effective heroine.

The play was beautifully staged and the costumes were exact reproductions of those worn during the years in which the story portrayed is supposed to have happened.

FOR MONTH OF APRILRev. Hicks Says "Great Variety of Weather: Will Prevail, During Coming Month."

Stored your winter overcoat yet? If you have you had better bring it out, because it will be needed for next month, according to the forecast for April by the Rev. H. Hicks, Rector of the Trinity Episcopal Church.

According to Rev. Hicks' prediction there will be a storm period from the second to the sixth of the month. In the west it will be announced by a sharp temperature falling, rain and snow, and growing clouds. In the second and third days of the month, and during the 4th and 5th, these conditions will pass eastward attended by storms of rain, hail and forceful winds. In northern parts of the country, late snow squalls and heavy fogs will be natural and probable.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 5th, 9th and 10th. Moon passes over the celestial equator on the 8th, new moon falls on the 9th and moon's perigee is on the 10th. The indications are that very unsettled and threatening weather will continue from the preceding period, and that renewed storms, with low barometer, high temperature, thunder and wind, will prevail generally, on and touching the 8th, 9th and 10th. Excessive warmth at this time, with much humidity and muggyness, will insure heavy, hot storms in many localities, with possible tornadoes, rising barometer and change to very much cooler weather with frost, from the 10th to the 13th, progressively from west to east. The 6th to 12th, central on the 9th, is a marked seismic period.

A regular storm period extends from the 11th to 14th, central on the 14th. This period will bring low barometer and return of energetic storms on and near the 15th, 16th, 17th and 18th. The Mars influence will disappear after the middle of April, and warmer, settled, spring-like weather may be expected. But the first half of the month will bring much of the March rawness, and the boreal bluster following the "Easter storms" will give a whiffy touch to much of the storm and weather in the first half of the month. Very cold nights will be natural from the 18th to 20th, with frost to the northward. A reactionary storm period is central on the 21st, 22nd and 23rd. On and touching the 22nd the temperature will rise suddenly to very warm, the barometer will fall rapidly and storms of thunder, rain, hail and wind will touch many places in their quick transition from west to east. The barometer will react to higher, immediately behind these storms, bringing a sharp drop in temperature, but the change will be of short duration. Allowing three days on either side of Sunday the 21st, is another seismic period. A regular storm period covers the 25th to 29th, central on the 27th. MONROE COUNCIL TO
BE ORGANIZED SOONLarge Class to Be Initiated Into Knights of Columbus Next Sunday.

Monroe, Wis. April 1.—A large class is to be initiated into the Monroe council of the Knights of Columbus which will be organized on Sunday, April 17, in the armory. It is expected that large delegations from the neighboring cities of Janesville, Platteville and Holst will be present to be initiated with the class. For the accommodations of those coming from Dubuque and Freeport, a special train will be run up and back and a Chicago party of twenty-five, including a degree team, will be in attendance. The organization now has an enrollment of twenty members from Monroe and vicinity, and there are fifty candidates in the class to go into the Monroe council. State and district deputies will also be here for the event. It is expected that the order will attract the largest gathering of its kind ever known in this section of the state. Following the initiation, a large banquet will be served at 8 o'clock in the armory and covers will be laid for 500.

Mrs. Fred J. Bolander received a telegram yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, stating that her brother, Howard Chudwick, was operated upon for appendicitis at Penn. Valley hospital, Kansas City, the operation being very successful. He had suffered with the ailment for two weeks and the attack became so acute a few days ago that his physician advised an immediate operation. Until recently Mr. Chudwick had been with his father, who is taking treatments at Excelsior Springs, Mo.

Bowling Teams.

Local Items.

SOCIETY VOTES ON PROPOSED REMOVAL

Intended Change of Headquarters of Society of Equity Brought on Storm of Protest

Madison, Wis., March 28.—The proposed removal of the headquarters of the Wisconsin union, American Society of Equity, from Madison to Eau Claire is the subject of a referendum vote now being conducted, and which will close April 5. The change was ordered made by the board of directors a few weeks ago, but so great was the protest that followed that the board decided to submit the question to the members at their decision.

One of the main reasons for the relocation of the headquarters in Madison is the proximity to the halls of legislation. Eau Claire, on the other hand, boasts of its greater accessibility for a large portion of the state membership residing in the northwestern part of Wisconsin.

DEALERS BUYING UP
THE CHEAPER GRADESBulk of Purchases of '09 Tobacco
Crop Have Been of Goods Selling
For Seven Cents.

The work of gathering in the remnants of last season's crop seems to be progressing in nearly all the growing sections, though the bulk of trading is confined mainly to the cheaper grades lifted around the 7 cent mark, which will permit of filling export orders. At least 200 to 300 cases, says the Edgerton Tobacco Reporter, have recently been taken over to meet this demand.

Little has transpired in the cured leaf market that furnishes much encouragement to holders of old goods. Some 7000 cases of '06, the remnants of two La Crosse pickers, have lately been closed out. Other transactions noted are of the usual small order trading.

The receiving of early purchases is now well along except where the tobacco is still hanging in the sheds awaiting easing weather. A good deal has been weighed up and settled for to remain on the farms, where dealers have not sufficient storage facilities. The great handicap to warehouse handling is the shortage of help in nearly every packing center, which will prolong the season, while the warm weather has set the unsorted bolls into heating, also causing some uneasiness. But little work has yet been done towards the seed beds though unseasonably warm weather has occurred.

The shipments out of storage reach 640 cases and 14 cuts of bales to all points for the week from this market. Since last report 400 car loads have been received for warehouse handling.

Seeding Time At Hand.

The calendar time for laying the seed beds is at hand, while early spring indications will prompt many growers to take advantage of the situation to start the work even at an earlier date than usual. The main thing in the first plantings is to provide proper protection of the beds against the cold drying winds that so frequently follow the first spring weather as well as late frosts. Care is covering is most generally used and when stretched upon frames the latter should be well banked up to keep out the cold blasts. Sand or litter covers are too easily subject to be blown away, especially in a dry time. Then to secure a rapid growth of the plants, frequent watering of the beds must be resorted to, and if this is applied in the form of a liquid fertilizer a marked improvement will be noticed in the advancement of the young plants. The progressive grower can hardly afford to sow his beds and then trust to luck upon results. The beds will require the same measure of attention of the crop. Tobacco is not a chance crop at no part of the proceedings, from seed bed to the cured leaf.

Too True.
A friend in need is a bore indeed.—Judge.

TO IMPEACH JUDGE; START MOVEMENT

SABATH FATHERS RESOLUTION FOR INVESTIGATION FEDERAL OFFICIAL'S FEES.

HITS AT PETER S. GROSSCUP

Is Stirred by Chicago Labor Leaders
Who Declare Jurist's Acts in Traction
Matters Are Illegal—Wants Records Shown.

Washington, Apr. 1.—A movement started by organized labor to institute impeachment proceedings against United States Circuit Judge Peter S. Grosscup is being a resolution asking an investigation of the federal court officers from which representative Sabath of Chicago introduced in the house.

Congressman Sabath's resolution directs the attorney general to furnish the house with the names of all persons connected with the department of justice, and particularly the United States circuit and district courts, who receive compensation other than a fixed salary.

Mr. Sabath said that he desired mainly to break up the "court cliques" in Chicago that have got a corner on bankruptcy proceedings and receiverships.

Wants Records Shown.

The primary purpose of the resolution, he explained, was to secure a record of all clerks, special attorneys, masters in chancery, referees and other attaches of the court who receive compensation other than that fixed by the regular salary list, in order that their relations with the several courts could be checked up.

Naturally, he added, the investigation would lead up to Judge Grosscup, who appointed his confidential clerk one of the receivers of the Union Traction Company at Chicago. Sabath asserts that nearly a quarter of a million dollars was taken out of the assets to pay receivers, special attorneys and other appointees of the courts.

Other Courts Involved.

Other federal courts of Illinois, Mr. Sabath charges, have been ignoring the requests of interested litigants and their counsel, and apparently throwing all their receivership and bankruptcy cases to some one firm or favored friend of the court.

With reference to the Union Traction litigation and the work of Judge Grosscup's court, Congressman Sabath said impeachment proceedings had been suggested to him. He said that organized labor representatives and other persons of repute had requested him to prefer charges against Judge Grosscup and ask for his trial at the bar of the United States senate.

Just what these charges that have been lodged with Mr. Sabath are the congressman would not say.

COUNCILMEN WILLING TO TELL.

Threatened With Terms for Contempt, Two Pittsburghers Weaken.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Apr. 1.—P. B. Kearnes, indicted councilman, declined to tell the grand jury what he knew of bribes being given to councilmen. He was taken before Judge R. S. Fraser, to whom he said he might be incriminating himself by giving testimony. The court ordered Kearnes committed for contempt. Kearnes weakened and said he would tell all he knew. President William Brand of the common council, who was hurried to Riverside penitentiary when he would not testify before the grand jury, also weakened, and, at his own request, spent several hours before that body. Six more councilmen appeared before the court and confessed they had accepted bribes.

WOMAN IS SLAIN BY BURGLAR.

Screams in Fright at Sight of Intruder and Is Shot Down.

Springfield, Mass., Apr. 1.—His demand for money having been ignored, a masked burglar who had entered the drawing-room of the residence of Mrs. Sarah J. Dow on Round Hill, in the northern part of the city, shot and killed Miss Martha B. Blackstone, 35 years old, a public school teacher, and probably fatally wounded Miss Harriet P. Dow, a fellow teacher. Miss Blackstone was shot through the heart as she ran screaming into an adjacent room. The murderer escaped through the grove which surrounds the house.

With Miss Dow and Miss Blackstone in the dining-room were the former's mother and sister.

CAR SEAT BELONGS TO SPRY.

St. Louis Judge Decides Against Man "Who Saw It First."

St. Louis, Apr. 1.—"Title to a seat in a street car rests in the man who gets it first in preference to the man who sees it first," declared Judge Kleiber in the municipal police court, his decision settling a long-disputed point in the conduct of strap-hangers.

William Glover, who got a seat first and fought to keep it from Oscar Wagner, who saw it first, was thereupon discharged, after being arrested on the latter's complaint.

Good News for Employees.

New York, Apr. 1.—The increase in the wages of employees of the Pennsylvania and New Haven railroads will be followed shortly by liberal concessions on the part of the New York Central and Erie railroads. The concessions by the Central alone will add approximately $7,000,000 to the annual pay roll of that company.

ROOT DEFENDS TAFT RAILROAD MEASURE

President is Satisfied with Amendments Proposed by Friends of Bill.

Washington, Apr. 1.—Senator Root in continuing his defense of the Taft railroad bill suggested an amendment providing that traffic agreements shall not go into effect until approved by the interstate commerce commission. Senator Aldrich intimated that the amendment would be acceptable.

In the bill as framed, traffic agreements are legalized, the only stipulation being that such agreements when made shall be "filed" with the commission.

Root continued his address in favor of the bill and had not finished when adjournment was taken.

Senator Aldrich saw President Taft and discussed the measure and its prospects with him. The president is satisfied with the amendments that have been proposed by the friends of the measure. Senator Aldrich expressed the opinion that a vote on the measure ought to be had next week.

The prevailing opinion, however, is that it will be several weeks before a vote is had. Similarly Senator Aldrich talked of a possible adjournment of congress about the middle of May.

But few of the statesmen expect the adjournment for a month later, than that. The legislative program is being pushed forward gradually, however. In another week it is expected that the debate on it will be begun in the house.

In the matter of the amendment providing that traffic agreements shall be approved by the commission, Senator Root made it clear that he did not consider the addition as of particular importance.

Representative Sherley of Kentucky presented to the house a plan under which a majority of all elected members could call from any committee a bill which was being considered.

Mr. Sherley said his purpose was to give the elected majority of the house a chance to work its will in matters of legislation.

KIDNAPED CHILD IS FOUND.

Alma Kellner Will Be Returned to Parents on Sunday.

Louisville, Ky., Apr. 1.—Alma P. Kellner, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Kellner, Jr., of this city, kidnaped December 8, 1908, while on her way to church and held for $25,000 ransom, probably will be in the arms of her overjoyed parents Sunday. Her return will end a nationwide hunt of 82 days, in which thousands of detectives, stimulated by the large rewards offered, participated.

The abductors, if they have not already received it, will be paid $10,000 and promised immunity from prosecution by relatives.

Negotiations for the restoration of the stolen child are being arranged by Fred Fehr, an uncle, who is a wealthy business man here, and who Alma's parents admitted has been in personal communication with the kidnapers for several days.

Fehr left Louisville last Saturday, taking $10,000 with him.

THE PRESIDENT'S SENSATIONAL TALK

TAFT TELLS OHIO SOCIETY WHY
EAST RULES IN CONGRESS.

LONG TERM GIVES POWER

President Declares When Eastern State Gets Good Representative In They Keep Him In Because of His Vast Influence.

Washington, Apr. 1.—President Taft created a sensation in an address before the Ohio society of Washington when he pointed out that the dominating power of eastern states in congress lies in the fact that they keep men in office when they place them there.

"Why in it," he asked, "that the small states of the east exercise so much power in congress? It is not because an eastern man has any more capacity in the matter of legislation than a western man—certainly not more than an Ohio man. It is because when the eastern states get a good representative they keep him as long as he lives, and then he has an influence that vastly exceeds the mere numerical representation of population."

Interested in Ohio.

"I don't know whether this is germane to the subject of this occasion, but it occurred to me to say this because I feel as if we are all interested in having Ohio well represented and in having Ohio make itself felt in the legislation of this country by adopting a system that will certainly bring about the weight she is entitled to."

The president was the guest of honor at the meeting called for the purpose of organizing an Ohio society. Justice William R. Day presided and subsequently was elected president of the society. Mr. Taft congratulated Ohio on its high place in the nation and upon the influence of its people, who had scattered throughout the country. He said he had not come to talk politics, but that he did want to say one thing of a political nature.

"There is only one thing I want to say about Ohio that has a political tinge," he said, "and that is that I think a mistake has been made of recent years in Ohio in failing to continue as our representatives the same people term after term."

Long Term Gives Influence.

"I do not need to tell a Washington audience, among whom there are certainly some who have been interested in legislation, that length of service in the house and in the senate is what gives influence. And, therefore, that rotation in office, while it may satisfy the different counties and keep them from a county interlocking war, interferes with the state of Ohio exercising that influence that it ought to exercise in the senate and in the house."

"I am in favor, therefore, of continuing the representation as we have it so that the representatives shall be the foremost in both halls of the legislature."

TWO ITALIAN TOWNS MENACED.

Lava River from Mount Etna Is 100 Feet Deep in Places.

Naples, Apr. 1.—The towns of Bello and Belpasso are believed to be doomed as a result of the continued spread of the lava flow from Mt. Etna. These towns are now wholly depopulated, and soldiers stand guard to prevent any of the residents from returning to their houses.

It is now certain the lava stream will eventually reach the sea. Messages from Catania say that the advance of the stream in the direction of that town has been checked by the hills to the north and west, and that the flow is now turned toward the coast.

Mt. Etna's activity showed no diminution. Thirty craters are pouring out their molten streams. In places the lava river is 100 feet deep.

CONGRESS MAY END WORK MAY 15

Aldrich Makes This Prophecy But Others Differ from Him.

Washington, Apr. 1.—Congress may be able to adjourn May 15, is the belief of Senator Aldrich. The senate leader issued his prophecy on leaving the White House, where he conferred with President Taft on pending legislation in which the administration is interested.

This is the first prognostication of importance yet made as to the date of adjournment. Several influential members of congress believe it is too optimistic, and that opposition to certain features of the administration program may develop that will carry the session much further along.

Allotting the Spokane Lands.

Spokane, Wash., Apr. 1.—In accordance with the notification sent out by Registrar Cole of the United States land office, the holders of low numbers entitled to file on the Spokane Indian reservation land are making their selections here to-day. Much of the land has been designated as timber land, so that there are tracts for only 64 persons. The land is appraised at five dollars an acre, and when a person makes a filing he is required to pay one-fourth of the cost and, in addition, fees and commissions, which amount to $22 for 160 acres.

Now my weary heart is breaking,
For my left hand tooth is aching,
With a harsh, persistent
Rumble that is keeping
Folks awake; holding
Quietude sold they'd pull their freight
Lowed out by long erosion, it, with spasm and explosion, seems resolved to show the public how a doggone tooth can ache. Now it's quivering or quaking now, its doing fancy work, then it shoots some human craze which goes whizzing through my brain; now it does some lofty tumbling, then again it's showing grumbling; and anon it's showing samples of spring novelty in pat-

All the time my nose increases;
I have kicked a chair to pieces, but it didn't seem to soothe me or to bring my soul relief; I have started around the shanty till my wife and madden quinto said they'd pull their freight and leave me full enjoyment of my

MAKE STOMACH TROUBLE VANISH BY TAKING A LITTLE DIAPEPSIN

Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn, Headache and other distress will go in five minutes.

If you had a little Diapepsin handy and would take a little now your stomach distress or indigestion would vanish in five minutes and you would feel fine.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, out-of-order stomach before you realize it.

If your meals don't tempt you or what little you eat seems to fill you, or lays like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Ask your Pharmacist for a 50-cent case of Diapepsin and take a little just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headaches, dizziness or intestinal griping. This will all go, and besides, there will be no undigested food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it prevents fermentation and takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is at any drugstore waiting for you.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure almost any case of Diapepsin, indigestion or any other stomach disturbance.

Spectacular Struggle in Mine Wage Conference. President Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America.

Channah, O., April 1.—The industrial war in the coal mining district has reached a climax. The 200,000 union miners have decided to strike and now the country faces a most disastrous and far-reaching industrial upheaval of recent years.

Among the central figures in the fight stand President Thomas L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America, and John H. Walker, president of the 70,000 miners in Illinois.

It was Walker who prevented a country-wide industrial war by a dramatic speech before the convention of the United Mine Workers of America, Saturday.

WINDMILLS

Every possible improvement is to be found in a Burton Mill. Every part is constructed as simple as possible and made to perform its full quota of work.

An example: The angle of the piston to the pump rod—on the up-stroke when it is doing the most amount of work—is so small that the friction is reduced to a minimum, permitting the mill to run in lighter winds than others and of course pumping more water.

Cherub Devine

By SEWELL FORD

Copyright, 1909, by Mitchell Kennerly

"Yes, but I came back. You're not crying, are you?"

"Crying? Certainly not!"

"No?"

"Well, if I was, I'm not now. I shall not again—ever."

"That's right. You see, countess, I'm going to feel bad enough about this duke of mine to do for both of us."

"That's what I came back to say. I don't know just how to put it, but if there's anything I can do to make you forget that there's such a person as Cherub Devine I'll do it, even if it comes to jumping off the dock."

"There's nothing in it."

"Well, maybe it'll be some satisfaction to you to know that I feel like—well, like five-eighths off and nothing left. I don't want to tell you. I wish I could tell you all about that countess."

"No, not you mustn't!" Again she turned to the draperies, hiding her flushed face in her hands.

"Maybe if you hadn't read so many of those newspaper yarns about me—"

"It isn't that; truly it is not," came in muffled tones from the countess.

"Of course I can see where I don't measure up with the kind of men you've known, and I tried to keep that in mind all the time, but—well, I couldn't do it, that's all. You see, I haven't had much use for women. I thought they were all alike. But you—you're different, countess. I wish I was different too. I wish I was more like Nick. If I was perhaps I could make you see how much I need you—how—oh, say, countess, couldn't you just let me say—"

"No, not don't say it, please!" This came faintly, for her face was still hidden.

"All right, I won't." The Cherub seemed to be swallowing the words.

or understand. But the inexplicable arrived. He was aware of a sudden deep sob, which seemed to shake from crown to heel the graceful figure before him. He heard a half-articulated exclamation, saw her turn away abruptly toward him, and in the next instant she was in his arms. Abruptly the old audacity had rushed upon him, and he had accomplished the impossible.

Nor did that complete the miracle. She was clinging to him, one soft arm against his cheek, her warmly tinted face raised to his, her moist brown eyes, shining under long lashes, half closed.

"I know; I have known," she was whispering as one who pants out a message after a long, hard run.

"Countess!" he breathed. "Then—then you?"

"Yes, Cherub."

"And you will?"

"No, not! Suddenly she was no longer passive. She struggled to free herself. "Oh, you must leave me! There is something—I can't tell you. But I can't see you again—perhaps not for years. Oh, you must go away!"

"Go!" echoed the Cherub.

"Yes, go and forget. Indeed you must. Please go!"

"Yes, yes, countess; I'll go, but not until!" Impetuously he drew her face up to his until their lips met. It was no hasty, inaccurate performance. He made a thorough and highly satisfactory job of it before she could slip away from him.

"Now go, go! Please go!" she pleaded.

"It's the last thing I'd want to do," said the Cherub, "but if you say I must!"

"Oh, indeed you must! I've been weak, wickedly weak! And you must go away. No, don't look at me again or remember me. Go!"

Cherub Devine reluctantly obeyed. Whether he walked soberly down the carriage road or whether he flouted through the air he could not have told. Only when he reached the big stone gates was he sufficiently composed to take note of concrete objects. And then he realized that some one was peering at him from behind a bunch of shrubbery.

CHAPTER XI.

NOW, one doesn't expect to find a man in frock coat and silk hat dodging behind bushes, on a place like Livingston Acres. Yet Cherub Devine had come to associate that particular part of Long Island with all sorts of surprises.

It appeared that this now arrival had intended to see without being seen, but he had not been quite quick enough. Without stopping to consider just why he was doing it, Mr. Devine promptly joined in the game by stepping into the shrubbery also.

The Cherub parted the bushes cautiously. He discovered the stranger doing the same thing. Twice the Cherub stole stealthily around a bush, sure of having executed a successful flank movement on the unknown, only to find that he had disappeared like a flash.

Taking off his straw hat, the Cherub balanced it carefully on the top of a rhododendron and began making a cautious detour. To walk in a stooping position for any distance and a thirty-eight waist measure doesn't help. The Cherub was already red of face and breathing heavily when he suddenly rounded a little thicket of stunted trees and found himself within arm's length of a slender, snail-faced person, who was holding a silk hat behind him and intently gazing at the crown of a straw one which showed above a bush some twenty yards away.

From a side view from behind was enough to reveal the stranger.

Even a side view from behind was enough to reveal the stranger.

blamed bush dodger, do you expect me to believe she would deliberately tell me—"

"Ah, but that's just the point!" broke in the count.

And when he came to think it over the Cherub could not recall that the Countess Veech had ever said or implied that her husband was dead.

"It strikes me that you don't help matters much by coming over here and playing tag around my shrubbery," suggested the Cherub. "I might add that it's apt to be a heap safer for you not to do so."

(4.) Verse 19—Did Jesus, while in the flesh, ever refuse any request for help, and how is he today in that particular?

(5.) Give your views as to whether it is possible for a person to be a true Christian, who is not as willing to help those in need as Jesus was.

(6.) Verse 20-21—How do you harmonize with the goodness of God the fact that there are so many with incurable diseases, in great pain all the time, dying a living death, much like this poor woman?

(7.) If all such sufferers would come to Jesus now, in faith, like this poor woman did, would it be his will to always cure them, as he did this?

(8.) It was a noble faith that this woman had in believing she would be cured by touching his garment, but is there reason to believe that she could have been cured without touching him at all?

(9.) Was it the touch that cured her, or the conscious consent and power of Jesus?

(10.) Verse 22—Jesus knows and sees all who would come to him for help, and always welcomes and helps each one who comes, why then do so many hesitate, or neglect to come to him?

(11.) Verses 23-24—It appears it was a custom to play mournful music when death entered a home, and for the friends to make a great lamentation, please say whether this harmonizes with the teaching of Jesus, and whether in this case his words were meant for a rebuke.

(12.) Why are not mournful music, the wearing of mourning, the giving away to violent grief, and other similar heathenish customs, when friends die, displeasing to God?

(13.) Can you give any examples of Jesus using words with two or more meanings, and in such a way, that only those who were honest hearted could understand what he meant?

(14.) Verse 25—Why did Jesus put the people out, before he raised this young woman to life?

(15.) Was it possible for Jesus, and is it possible for any follower of Jesus, to work effectively in the presence of scorn?

(16.) Verse 26—Why did the world reject Jesus, notwithstanding his great fame as a loving teacher with marvelous wonder-working power?

(17.) Verse 27-29—How did these two blind men know that Jesus was the son of David?

(18.) Do all men need to cry for mercy, and why?

(19.) Would Jesus have healed these blind men if they did not have faith that he could do so?

(20.) What part does faith play in the temporal and spiritual progress of men today?

(21.) Verse 30-31—Why did Jesus forbid them from telling of this miracle?

(22.) Did they do right to tell of this miracle, and had they not done so?

(23.) Which is the right thing to do, follow our good impulses, or obey God, when these are contrary to the one to the other as in this case?

(24.) Verses 32-34—Jesus spent his life in one continuous work of healing all manner of diseases and doing good; in what measure are we to follow his example?

(25.) Why was it that the more good he did, and the more clearly he demonstrated his claim as the son of God, the more the Pharisees hated him?

"YOU'RE NOT CRYING, ARE YOU?"

"Then I suppose it's—it's goodby? It was near her now, quite near, inspecting with helpless masculine anxiety the outward aspects of her distress. He noted the subdued tremors which came and went with her sobs. 'I'm sorry,' he went on. 'But Nick would have guessed it, anyway. Not all, though. He doesn't know how much I wish you knew, countess. I wish—'

Just why it should have happened then or at all Cherub Devine will never know."

Seating arrangement of mammoth arena to be erected at Emeryville for Jeffries-Johnson fight.

PRINCIPAL FACTS ABOUT THE ARENA.

Seating capacity about 30,000.
Elevation from ring to top seats, 40 feet.
Farthest seat from the ring, about 150 feet.
Prices range from $50 at ring side to $5 for outside seats.
San Francisco—The arena in which Jeffries and Johnson are to battle for the heavy weight championship on July 4 will be a mammoth affair, as can be judged from the diagram, as published herewith. According to the plans the most distant seat from the arena will be about 150 feet measured in an air line. The arrangements of the inclosure will give accommodations to about 30,000 persons.
According to the plans of the architect, the floor of the arena will rise in a spherical manner not unlike the bottom of a giant kettle. The curve starts at the first row of the $50 seats and rises until it reaches a height of 40 feet, which will be the end row of the $5 seats.

While in other respects the arena will be built practically on the same style as the one at Point Richmond, where Nelson lost his title to Watson, yet it will be far greater in size, as well as more elaborate. Laughlin & Welsh, the contractors, have many new innovations in mind which they will put into effect. One of these will be the arrangements to handle the crowd after it enters the arena.
There will be eight or more entrances which will lead the spectators under the arena, branch aisles which lead from the main entrances, which lead the spectator directly to the section where he belongs. The tickets will be colored according to the section, and a ticket taker will be at the entrance of each section, to see that nobody but a ticket purchaser for that section will be admitted. Inside the arena will handle the ticket holders.

The arena itself will be divided inside by two temporary wire fences, which will apportion the inclosure into three sections. This will be to prevent patrons from entering any other section but the one where they belong. These wire fences will be moved shortly before the fight, though they would not seriously mar the view of the spectators if they remained.
There are to be 102 press seats near the ring and the seats which run back from the arena to the first dark line as indicated in the drawing will range from $20 to $50. The prices between the first and second dark line range from $10 to $25, and beyond this the seats cost from $5 to $10.
It is estimated that more than half a million feet of lumber will be used to build the arena. The promoters can not see the necessity of an additional fence. The race track fence proper, it is believed, will give all the protection necessary, along with a big patrol of Pinkerton men.

DELEGATES TO PAN AMERICAN CONFERENCE AT BUENOS AYRES.

Washington, D. C.—The Pan American conference in Buenos Ayres is the greatest fair ever undertaken on the continent of South America. Its object will be the promotion of a closer business relationship between the American republics. The Honorable Francis B. Saypol, former ambassador to Argentina, has been appointed by President Taft as chairman of the United States delegates. Mrs. White, who accompanied her husband will receive much attention socially while at Buenos Ayres.

New Business for Women.
Miss Edna Blanchard Lewis is a New York woman who has originated and now directs the only insurance department in the world run exclusively for women. There is a splendid field for women in this work, she says, and it is comparatively easy to work up from the ranks. The first step is to become an agent. She herself had been a school teacher, but found the work unbecomingly so, became the agent for an insurance company, with most of her work in the colleges of Smith, Wellesley, Mount Holyoke and Vassar.
